THE volumes in this series combine in a remarkable degree the charm of places and the interest of literary association, for each traces the footsteps of a famous writer, and describes the country in which he lived, through which he travelled, and from which he drew his inspiration. Such tours have a double delight—that of taking the traveller to beautiful and interesting places, and that of bringing him nearer a great author and his work. For certain it is that the reader can never appreciate to the full the genius of a writer till he knows something of the man's surroundings and of the raw material upon which he laid his quickening hand.

After 8 years in Spanish America, where he made a special study of the question Scent v. Vision in Birds of Prey, he published a compendium of his arguments in favour of the latter view in the Times, Oct. 1872. In Bolivia he was entrusted with a special mission to report to Lord Clarendon as to the advisability of renewing diplomatic intercourse with that Republic, and held a commission to report upon and examine the country between the Vermejo and Pilcomayo Rivers, and the country of the Abas, from the Government of Melgarejo. At 40 marrying, and soon after succeeding to the Lancashire estates, he abandoned travel for art, politics, and journalism, lecturing on Tithes, writing for Dublin Review, Tablet, Liverpool Mercury, and Catholic Times, for which paper he wrote a series of Polemical Articles, afterwards published in book form, The Church of the Tithe. Contested Preston, 1885. Defeated at Preston, he was offered Chatham as a solatium by the Liberal Caucus; but through his holding strong views against the then Liberal crusade against the Peers, and in general against the Newcastle programme, was tabooed by the Liberal Caucus. Since when he has been mainly employed in developing his Lancashire estates, and after a protracted study of the foreign methods of forestry, has succeeded in clothing the bare sandhills of his coast between Southport and Formby Point with pines. He received his late Majesty in Coronation year at Lulworth Castle, the splendid home of his ancestors in Dorset. His Lancashire seat has a European reputation for its art treasures, which comprise by far the largest private collection of antique marbles in the country. Address: Ince Blundell Hall, near Liverpool. Club: Travellers'.

Executors

The task of finding a capable and responsible person who is willing to act as an executor or trustee is not easy. In addition, an executor so appointed is no less liable to die than the testator himself, in which event the whole problem is raised anew and fresh expense entailed—probably at an inopportune moment

The Westminster Bank, on the other hand, is willing to undertake such duties, and in doing so provides several distinct advantages. It is permanent, and it is accessible; expert business knowledge is assured, and there is no possibility of loss by fraud or unauthorized investments. Absolute secrecy is observed, and the Bank is always prepared to employ the family Solicitor

A book giving conditions of appointment may be obtained from the Trustee Department, 51 Threadneedle Street London, E.C.2

Demy 8vo. PRICE 7/6 NET Cloth.

NOTE.—An illustrated description of a leisurely ramble across France, from Dieppe to the Italian frontier; to the accompaniment of irresponsible comments on men and matters, past and present, suggested by things seen and heard by the way.

Underlying a certain pert irreverence, occasionally bordering on the flippant, the curious reader may detect a thoughtful motive.

On the other hand he may not.

In either case he is offered an enthusiastic account of an adventure embracing in its scope the investigation of many of the finest national monuments of mediæval France; some character studies of persons famous and infamous in her history; a tribute to the consistent hospitality extended to the stranger within her gates to-day, with a sprinkling of practical information for his guidance, and some eulogies on the "Carte du Jour."

EARLY PRESS OPINIONS

". . . charming and very gay, so it ought to be—certainly it deserves to be—popular." —The Nation and Athenæum.

"Mr. Sheldon-Williams is the perfect dawdler. As a contemporary wrote of Charles II., he is an artist in the practice of lounging. . . . It is impossible to indicate how good he is except by quotation."—The New Statesman.

"He has a gay, conversational manner of describing things seen by the way between Dieppe and the Italian frontier, and has an enviable gift for communicating his pleasures." —Daily News.

THE MAGAZINE OF THOSE WHO ARE WHO

One Shilling invested in Vogue (a tiny fraction of your loss on a single ill-chosen gown) may save you many guineas.

The gown you buy and seldom wear is the really expensive gown. Hats, shoes, gloves, which miss being exactly what you want, are the ones that cost you more than you can afford.

Therefore Vogue suggests that before you spend a single penny on clothes—before you even plan your wardrobe for the coming season—you consult its pages.

One Shilling. Twice Monthly.

Personal Motion Pictures

Why not motion pictures instead of ordinary snapshots? With a Filmo you can film your children playing in the nursery or with Gyp on the lawn, you can get living pictures of your friends at their sport—pictures of the races—intriguing films of that last trip out East—in fact, anything and everything that interests you. And how much better to save your memories in living pictures than in ordinary "stills." You'll prize the films taken with Filmo, and as time goes on you'll treasure them more and more. What a miracle in years to come to be able to show Baby (then a grown-up woman) pictures of herself when five. Anyone can operate Filmo. Sights like a spy-glass. Touch a button and you automatically get theatre quality—motion pictures of what you see. Filmo is universally popular, and is used by such well-known people as—H.R.H. Prince of Wales, Lord Louis Mountbatten, Lady Astor, Sir Victor Sassoon, J. Pierpont Morgan, Galli-Curci, and hundreds of others internationally known.

PUBLISHERS' NOTE

IN this book the author gives a lively and sympathetic picture of the interesting nation which holds a sentinel post at the gate of Russia.

He stresses the importance to the world at large of understanding the Finns, since fate has placed them athwart Russia, whose development from Bolshevism will give the chief interest to the future history of the twentieth century; and since the Finns are eager to try out all those problems of post-war civilisation which have to do with the reconciliation of democracy with authority, of capitalism with the rights of labour, of art with mechanical industry, of women's claim to civic equality with the institution of the family.

This book is the first up-to-date and comprehensive account of Finland, and is freely illustrated.

EARLY PRESS OPINIONS

". . . he has the knack of setting down the record of his observations and experiences in a readable and entertaining fashion. His judgments are shrewd, his statements of fact accurate. The result is a lucid and informing book which every visitor to Finland should take with him, not merely as a guide but as a companion."—The Times Literary Supplement.

"Full of interest and information. . . . Well written in a bright, popular style; is admirably got up and illustrated."—Truth.

". . . an absorbing volume."—John o' London's Weekly.

A PRESS OPINION

". . . excellently carried out. The full-page coloured illustrations, of which there are between seventy and eighty, are reproductions of wash-drawings, very broad and spirited, which exhibit in an impressionist way the general effect of the costumes of the different periods. Many of them are charming pictorially, and there are few that miss their point. In addition we have a series of thirty-two drawings by Hollar illustrative of female costume in the Stuart period, and another of forty-eight by the author and twelve by the Dightons, father and son, showing the appearances of both men and women in the reign of George III. Several hundred pen-and-ink thumbnails besides convey to the reader graphically the details of the costumes described in the text."—Chronicle.

DEAL MARKET for Collection and Single ues is provided by the famous

PHILATELIC AUCTIONS OF BOND STREET.

At well-appointed sale-rooms in the heart of the West End of London, some of the biggest stamp transactions are enacted. Philatelists who patronise these sales, either by mail or personal visit, are keen devotees and many will literally bid any price on items they are especially wanting. In this connection, it may interest the reader to note that here during the past season over £62,000 was realised in auction alone. It is a tradition in Bond Street that high prices for choice stamps are the rule and not the exception.

A speciality has been made of the sale of important RARITIES and SPECIALISED COLLECTIONS, and holders of such properties wishing to realise to the best advantage are requested to communicate with us.

Ask for a free copy of "BOND STREET AUCTIONS, 1925-26," a recently issued booklet giving information to the prospective buyer and vendor and a Résumé of Prices obtained during last season at the Old Bond Street Galleries.
